

Before you surrender your pet, help may be available.

Money is tight for a lot of families right now. These free and low-cost resources may help you keep your pet at home.

Free pet food

Pet food pantries and supply banks run by shelters and community groups.

Low-cost vet care

Nonprofit clinics, low-cost vaccines and programs that help pay vet bills.

Low-cost spay/neuter

Affordable spay and neuter surgery at community clinics.

Temporary foster

Short-term care for your pet during a crisis, so you can be reunited later.

Lower-cost rentals

Long-term rentals with low or no pet fees, and Fee-Friendly Landlords who waive or reduce fees.

Rehoming alternatives

If you truly can't keep your pet, rehome from home instead of surrendering.

Scan for resources near you

National programs plus local help in Austin, Denver, Tampa, Phoenix, Dallas–Fort Worth, Atlanta, Nashville, Charlotte, Raleigh, Orlando, Seattle, Portland and San Diego.

petfriendlypad.com/keep-your-pet

Local help from our shelter:
